SAYS NURSING SKILL MAY BE MUCH NEEDED

Between 40 and 50 women from Newmarket and surrounding district attended an organization meeting for a Red Cross emergency nursing reserve course, at the Stuart Scott school on Monday evening.

This new course, sponsored by the Newmarket Red Cross branch, will comprise a series of 16 to 20 meetings, dealing with nursing and emergency care in the home.

Mrs. W. R. Stephens, president, was in charge of Monday evening's meeting, conducted the business, and called on Mrs. R. J. Rogers, R.N., Sharon, who has been appointed district officer in charge of nursing reserve work and who will conduct the course, to explain the work planned.

Nine other graduate nurses from Newmarket and district have offered to assist. It was stressed that a good, big enrolment is necessary if the course is to be held. Registrations will be received at or before the first meeting, which is to be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. Registrations will be received at this meeting any time after 7.30 p.m. They may also be made in the afternoons, except Saturday, at the Red Cross rooms at the corner of Main and Water Sts., up until next Wednesday. None will be accepted after Wednesday.

Meetings will be held from 8 p.m. sharp until 10 p.m. on Wednesday evenings at the Stuart Scott school. The topic of the first meeting will be "Nursing in the Home." Following the lectures by Mrs. Rogers, the group will divide into small units under nurses, who will give practical demonstrations. Then each individual will do practical work.

"In times of peace we can very nicely apply any and all of the knowledge we will learn in these classes," stated Mrs. Rogers. "In time of world war, with a large military camp in our midst, it is doubly important that we have a knowledge of how to promote health and prevent sickness."

"At present when we are ill we are fortunate in being able to obtain the help of doctors and nurses," she said. "However, as this war progresses this may not be the case. Every doctor and

Farmer's Son Once Sold Butter To Unappreciative Ladies, Makes Suggestion To Deal With Shortage

By DR. J. H. WESLEY, M.O.B.

This great scarcity of butter has not had its commencement just lately, but you can go back to the years when there was no butter around Newmarket but the farmer's butter, what is now called "dairy butter."

Those were the days when the farmer was really hard up. He with his wife and a large family worked from four o'clock in the morning till dark, then did the milking and fed the pigs after dark. Those were the days when the farmer got 60 cents a bushel for his wheat and $50 for the best Clydesdale horse he could breed.

Those were the days when, as a boy, the son of a poor farmer living on the outskirts of the town, where my father farmed a few acres intensively, and as Goldsmith has rightly said, "forced a curdled soil for scanty bread," well do I remember it was my duty as the oldest of a family of eight, to market the few dozen eggs and a couple of rolls of beautiful butter, dressed so nicely in the market basket with clean, white towels. Well do I remember how the old ladies of the town would come round and with their dirty, old finger-nails would sample that beautiful butter that had been processed with such care by a wonderful, faithful mother, until my pride could stand it no longer.

In those days the farmers had bigger families and the boys and girls all worked on the farm and very often the sale of the eggs and butter on the Saturday market had to buy all the weekly supplies for the home. The boys helped milk the cows and make the hay, while the girls helped make the butter and tend the chickens. But the spirit of independence naturally was bred in the farmer's sons and daughters.

They were sent to school and as they became educated they were not satisfied with the home on the farm with all its slavery. The boys went into professions, the girls went into the towns, became occupied in teaching, stenography, while very many of them married among the better class of people. These boys and girls were not going to depend on the paltry price of ten cents a pound for good farmer's made butter and eight cents a dozen for eggs, for their living; and so it has been over a period of many years that farmer's butter has been becoming scarcer and harder to procure.

It was given to the members of the county council the other day that the scarcity of butter was because the farmers were not able to buy milking machines. When the farmer is able to buy a milking machine, he does not make butter, for 95 percent of them use the milking machine to produce cream for the creamery and milk for the dairy. It is only the farmer with a few cows who ever makes butter any more, and lately the dice has been loaded against the manufacture of butter on the farm by the six cents a pound bonus to butter made in the creamery.

I claim that if the dairy should have a six cent bonus, the farmer should have twice that bonus, because of the extra amount of work and hardship entailed in the making of the farmer's butter. Anyone who does not appreciate the difference between farmer's butter and that made in the creamery misses a great treat. I would advocate a 12 cent bonus on farmer's butter and I would call it "farmer's butter," for there is not enough distinction between the two kinds of butter with the present names, "dairy" and "creamery."

North-West Rebellion Hero, Now 81, Brings Home Stag

ONE-TIME CRACK SHOT OF REGIMENT IS QUICK ON DRAW

By AUBREY TIMMINS

Making the usual trip up north and shooting a deer again this year although he is in his 82nd year is the proud record of Baldwin's popular storekeeper, Charles Pringle.

Mr. Pringle, along with his grandson, Lowell O'Brien, recently returned from Scotland, where he served in the armed forces, went north to Haliburton county and each brought back a fine trophy.

Mr. Pringle, who has several medals and awards for marksmanship, can handle a rifle as well as ever. As proof of his statement, he hit a button one inch in diameter twice in as many shots at a distance of more than four rods shooting offhand.

Last year he and his wife celebrated 50 years in the grocery business in the same store in the northern part of North Gwillimbury township four miles from Sutton.

Married in 1885, they started keeping store two years later and have kept many of their first customers, who still come into town every weekend for their supplies.

In 1885, shortly after he was married, he became a sergeant in the North West Rebellion expedition and was awarded a medal for courage under fire.

Both he and his wife are enjoying excellent health.

Fred Evans Of Dieppe Meets Dunkirk - Crete Prisoners

NEWMARKET BOY SAYS RED CROSS AND OTHER PRISONERS HAVE HELPED

A letter was received by his father, A. D. Evans, from Sgt. Fred Charles Evans, a prisoner of war in Germany, on Nov. 29, written Oct. 4. Sgt. Evans' letter was marked "Luffe-post via Lisbon" and over that in an oval is the stamp of the prison camp censor.

This last letter was for his father's and brother's birthdays and he says: "Dear Dad: Still getting along O.K. but just longing to hear from you all again. Although this letter won't arrive till long past your birthday, Dad, here's many happy returns for both you and Harold. You will be more than ever in my thoughts on the 13th and 21st."

"Just at present I have a bad cold in my head, but what's that in this place. I'm becoming quite a cook—you should taste our 'Stalg puddings'. They are real good, too! Don't know what we'd do without the Red Cross issue."

"As you know, we are allowed only one letter a week and I try to make as many as possible for home, but I would appreciate anyone writing to me though. Chocolate and cigarettes are the things we have the biggest longing for, also a can opener!"

The boys from Dunkirk and Crete have treated us well and I have made some good friends. I trust mother, yourself and all are quite well, and hope it isn't much longer before we can swap yarns. Most sincere wishes to you all."

THE PRESS WON'T FAIL

There couldn't be a Russian revolution in Canada. There couldn't be a French revolution in Canada. Press and radio are doing too good a job of telling one man what the other man thinks. The thoughts of the lowliest workman and the mightiest industrialist in Canada today do not begin to be so far apart as the thoughts of rich and poor in the Russian and French revolutions. It was not only that the poor could not read what the rich man could often read, but the poor could not write so that the rich could read.

How different it is in Canada today. We all read the same newspapers, books and magazines, hear the same addresses over the radio, and we can all write letters to the newspapers. We all think much alike. We can't help it. We are so much exposed to the other fellow's thoughts that we can't be isolationists. A few of us think that, in normal times, government should leave business alone; a few of us think that government should take over the ownership of business; most of us think that the government should exercise controls over business.

Most of us think that every man is entitled to a living, a chance to have a home and family of his own. A few of us, some advocates of laissez-faire, some advocates of communism, think we know how to manage the state to this end; most of us confess that we do not know the answer but we are anxious to feel our way into the new world. If we are to win the game, we recognize that we must change our style of play.

It would seem that the job of journalists today is to bring people together, to point to the middle way, to make the reactionary see that there must be changes, to make the radical appreciate the good in existing institutions.

It delights us therefore when a newspaper like the Financial Post, read by many of Canada's "big business" men, carries a weekly column on the "Post-War World" quoting such dreamers of a new world as Vice-President Henry Wallace of the United States. The Post is then helping to bring people together. It grieves us when the Post writes such stuff as this: "The C.C.F. is by no means a satisfactory second party because it is a party of revolution. Once it came to power it would end the democratic party system and establish the tyranny of the totalitarian state. Democracy can only function when all parties agree upon the fundamental principles of freedom and the right of the people to change their government when they want to. The Liberal and Conservative parties are agreed on these principles. The C.C.F. stands for an opposite principle. It can destroy but not contribute to successful maintenance of the democratic way."

Untruth of that sort divides Canadians, doesn't prevent revolutions, but foments them. The C.C.F. is just as democratic as the British Labor party, a most satisfactory and stimulating second party, which, though in minority, formed a progressive government, and has shared in the present w. administration. The C.C.F. is a socialist party in a sense but so is the Liberal party and the Conservative party (at Port Hope certainly and at Winnipeg if it hopes to get anywhere). The C.C.F. is a capitalist party too, for it advocates little that is new but just more of good things that we have now like the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and producer and consumer co-operatives.

The Post frequently condemns co-operatives but they fit into our capitalist system like a hand into a glove. They merely have a different shareholding principle and an ingenious one, designed to bring business success. The principle is that dividends are paid according to the amount of business the shareholder has given the firm—the complete answer to the shareholder who takes his dividends but patronizes a rival company! Drug Trading Company, in which practically all Ontario druggists have shares, is a co-operative, and a mighty successful one.

Co-operatives are a moderate, middle-of-the-road form of business organization which bring seller and buyer, producer and consumer, closer together, and those who fight and condemn them do not help to solve the problems ahead. Co-operatives and employee-shareholder plans such as that of the great Smelters corporation at Trail, B.C., may be able to make capitalism work.

It delights us again when "Canadian Business," published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, carries articles like (see November issue) "American Voices in Canada" (sub-title, "Stimulating ideas on post-war planning now to prevent a post-war muddle later on were presented by several Americans to the 1942 Canadian Institute on Public Affairs. The author discusses the significance of some of these blueprints for a brave new world, and their application to Canadian life"), "How Canada is Studying Post-War Problems" by J. G. Turgeon, M.P., "Post-War Planning: an International Responsibility," "Business Plans for War and Peace" by D. G. McKenzie, Winnipeg, immediate past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and "The Challenge of Change" (sub-title, "Business knows," says the author, "that free enterprise, operating under freedom's flags, offers the greatest hope for security and opportunity, the greatest hope for permanent peace." But this dynamic faith in free enterprise is tempered with an understanding of the need for reform and growth of social consciousness in capitalism itself, and for the leadership of progressive, alert business men in planning tomorrow's world.")

Here is one sentence from the "American Voices in Canada" article: "This would naturally lead to a quickening of co-operative enterprise in all fields lending themselves to this technique." (Financial Post please copy.)

As long as our business magazines are providing thought-provoking articles like these, as long as the columns of our newspapers are open to letter-writers great and small, as long as our publicly-owned radio conducts farm forums, gathering into one great discussion group rural people from Atlantic to Pacific, we need not fear that there ever can exist between our political parties differences so fundamental that they cannot alternate in power without disruption or dislocation. If and when the C.C.F. gains power, the alternative party (whether named Liberal or Conservative) will be advocating a similar and quite possibly more radical program and will be ready to pick up the threads of government and carry on without dropping a stitch.

British institutions of government have centuries of tradition behind them.

THEY SWAP SEATS

When Joseph Vale, Newmarket lawyer, first went to York county council as the town's deputy-reeve he advocated, as an economy and efficiency measure, that deputy-reeves should not attend county council. His advice was not taken and he continued in York county council and became chairman of the education committee. Now he has taken his own advice and is going to stay at home.

He has given the town and county a lot of good service and no doubt acquired much useful experience. Arthur D. Evans, who succeeds him as deputy-reeve and now becomes one of the two travelling members of the town council, has earned his promotion with several years of devoted service as chairman of the council's water and light committee. Mr. Vale is now offering his services as a councillor.

MAY WE SUGGEST?

Women are more interested in children of public school age than are men, and children are the most important part of our school system. The buildings, grounds and equipment are essential, and the teachers are indispensable, but the children are all-important. They are sent to school—in these modern days of more enlightened teaching they like to go—with the hope that they will acquire the mechanical means (reading, writing and arithmetic) and the desire to make life one long sweet lesson.

Men are needed on a public school board. Women are needed too, and it is not unreasonable that there should be two women among the six members of the 1943 public school board. One woman and two men were elected last year. One woman and two men should be elected this year. One woman and five men have qualified for the three seats. Mrs. John McKimming we know to be a fine and capable person, with a good deal of community and church service to her credit. She has children of her own in public school and should the electors decide to avail themselves of Mrs. McKimming's services they will find in her, we are sure, a good public servant.

Newmarket is indebted to the six public-spirited citizens who have allowed their names to be put on the ballot. An election is not a waste of money. An election not only allows the public instead of two or three nominators to choose its representatives, but it creates interest in our schools and our municipal affairs. It is interesting that there should be six candidates for the three unpaid public school board jobs, and only eight candidates for the six paid council seats. Perhaps it won't happen that way again, but it cheers us to think that the day of free public service in Newmarket is not at an end.

SAND IN MACHINERY

The Ontario department of highways usually buys sand for the Aurora-Bradford section of Yonge St. at Holland Landing, right beside this section of highway. This year the department is bringing its sand from a point somewhere in the Agincourt district, 40 or 50 miles away. Mr. McQuesten evidently doesn't have to use gasoline ration books.

LOOKING AHEAD

Newmarket should have a York county hospital building extension fund committee. Substantial gifts and legacies are not drummed up overnight. Perhaps the community might agree on a wing to the hospital as a war memorial, but in any event now is the time to begin to plan for increased hospital accommodation. Bowmanville hospital building extension fund has this year received two $5,000 gifts, and expects another substantial gift before long. York county hospital's needs should be publicized, and a fund established to receive big and little gifts and to be added to after the war by a canvass of all citizens of town and district.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

JOHN BRACKEN THE MAN

(The Bowmanville Statesman)

The Conservative party under the present leadership of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen meets in national convention at Winnipeg, Dec. 9. Its purpose is to rebuild the party. That means choosing both a virile, popular leader and a virile policy. These must meet the needs of the hour and measure up to stupendous after-war demands. If Canada is to retain responsible, democratic government after the war, she must retain, in the main, her traditional two-party system. To be worthy of survival, both old parties must repair their fences, and quickly too.

for "isms" are close in the offing.

It is a duty of the press at all times to take a hand in shaping events and it seems particularly the duty of the weekly press to offer suggestions on the eve of the Conservative convention. This is so at the moment largely because Hon. John Bracken is persistently mentioned as successor to Mr. Meighen.

Hon. Mr. Bracken has been a life-long friend of farmers, and the weekly press has a vast circulation based preponderantly through rural Canada. When a man of the calibre of Mr. Bracken is mentioned for leadership, few weeklies can, logically, oppose his selection. Canada as a whole would have benefitted immensely had John Bracken been permitted a place in national authority once this war broke upon us. Instead, he remained as premier of Manitoba and demonstrated that co-operative government in wartime was a practical proposition, a thing which Ottawa persistently denies.

Mentioned for leadership are several other very worthy men but in our opinion Mr. Bracken overshadows them all. What is his record? Born at Seely's Bay, Ontario, some 59 years ago, he farmed at home and then graduated with high distinction from the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. From thence he was drafted into the newly created Saskatchewan government as agricultural statistician. Next he was chosen professor of field husbandry at Saskatchewan University. His success was outstanding. So were the textbooks he wrote on dry farming.

He married and raised a family of four stalwart sons. After the war Manitoba Agricultural College elected him president. In 1922 came a political revolution that swept the farmers into power in Manitoba. They had no leader so they chose a man who had never been in politics and he was sworn in as premier. His name was John Bracken. He has been premier ever since, a straight period of 21 years. There has been no political skulduggery, log-rolling, or incapacity in his administrations. And he has brought prosperity and diversification to Manitoba farmsteads.

John Bracken has small use for politics. He is neither Grit nor Tory. He is away beyond all that. He has tremendous mental capacity and tremendous physical vitality and has developed an evenness and firmness in public administration that cannot be matched in Canada, even on Capitol Hill. Bracken, at college, made rugby history as one of Ontario's greatest half-backs. He has just that driving force today.

That kind of man is needed NOW in the national picture, and his tremendous capacities will be doubly needed in the uncertain years immediately following the war. If chosen at all he will write his own ticket. There is only one sphere unfamiliar to him. He has never sat in opposition. As a national leader no one could match him in popularity among those who toil and hope for better days. It is our opinion the weeklies of Canada, generally, would back John Bracken to the limit.

HOME ECONOMICS AND SOCIAL WELFARE

By Isabel Inglis Colville

When we reached the Royal York on the morning of Thursday, Nov. 5, we were too late for the assembly singing and Miss Clark's report. We came in just as Mrs. McPhatter was giving her report on home economics.

What struck me as I went in, was the atmosphere of very real attention which pervaded the room and the number of women who had come together to gather information which would prove useful to them in their home lives and aid in the war effort of their Institutes and communities.

There were not many there, I fancy, who had not had to plan carefully and work overtime to be present, therefore they were determined to take back something commensurate with the effort.

But we've left Mrs. McPhatter alone with her home economics and she deserves better treatment, for what she had to report from the reports sent her was excellent material for thought.

She said that the benefit, the necessity, of home economics in wartime was of paramount importance and that everywhere women were seeking new ways to economize.

One branch had a butcher attend one of their meetings and give a demonstration of the way to cut a quarter of beef, and being there, he suggested good ways of cooking the various cuts.

Then there were those who resolved to buy carefully, and to take the best of care of what they had. Also take care that no fifth columnist invade the home.

Here are some of the fifth columns: (1) Poor nutrition. (2) Wasteful living. (3) Hoarding. (4) Poor management of clothes. (5) Neglect of health.

Another branch specialized in wartime substitutes, vitamins and fish.

The benefit of the speaker service, which dealt with nutrition and defence, was also emphasized.

After much discussion it had been decided on Wednesday that there should be no eats at meetings—methinks that subject is not closed.

Another branch studied the vitamin values in meat and fish, and we were told to do as much as possible with what we have and do ALL we can.

Sugar was studied by one branch and some interesting facts brought to light. For example, in the United States in 1910, the sugar consumed per person, per year, was 10 pounds; in 1920, same place, each person consumed 120 pounds a year. It was suggested this might cause us to think how our consumption has increased.

A paper on how to prepare nourishing food was considered a valuable one to have given, and some roll-calls were told, among them, "How to mend runs in silk stockings" and "Postponing old age."

After luncheon on re-assembling we had singing, all the old

A farewell party was held on Tuesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knights and Mary Carol, who are moving to Toronto in the near future. It was a complete surprise to them. They were presented with a beautiful family Bible.

favorites that people love to sing. Then Mrs. Taylor of Hanover gave her report on the work of the committees in local welfare.

Better housing conditions were studied by one branch. Transportation of children to music festivals was arranged by another. In another, talks on blood donations, and talks on boxes for prisoners of war in regard to vitamins, were given.

First aid in emergencies was a popular subject for study, and a useful one. In one branch a special collection was taken for child welfare work, and in another for the Salvation Army canteen fund for overseas.

Playgrounds for children were sponsored by one branch. An interesting feature of this session was our introduction to a charter member of the Sheldburne Institute, a Mrs. Johnston, aged 83, who at one of their meetings had recited a lengthy poem, learned 40 years ago.

At this stage of the proceedings we had to leave for home, but to quote an old song in a different connection, "our brains were so loaded they nearly exploded," so perhaps it was just as well we could take time to mentally digest what we had heard.

Each year, speakers and reports seem to improve and ALWAYS one learns.

POLICE COURTRUN DOWN IN APRIL, IS STILL IN HOSPITAL

"It is a detestable thing that you did in time of war, to cheat the regulations," Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in York county police court, Newmarket, on Tuesday, told Louis Stoutenburgh, Victoria Square, found guilty last week of making false representation in an application to the wartime prices and trade board for a food ration book.

George H. Tuft, wartime prices and trade board investigator, gave evidence last week that the defendant had placed the name of Joan Paul, grandchild of a woman who sometimes worked in his home, on his application card and received a temporary ration card and a permanent ration book for food from the department. "I asked Mr. Stoutenburgh what he had made use of but one coupon of the temporary card and had not made any use of the permanent book."

Harry Rose, plaintiff, the defendant, who is in his 70th year, had been frank, honest and had made no attempt to conceal anything from the investigators.

"It is obvious that your purpose was to deprive someone else of a rationed article," Magistrate Woodliffe admonished the defendant. "You were not playing fair with the board, yourself or your neighbors. I fine you the sum of $100 and costs of 30 days in prison."

Pleading guilty to a charge of creating a disturbance by fighting, and being drunk, and vagrancy, an 18-year-old Aurora truck-driver was fined $10 and costs or ten days in jail.

Chief Constable Fisher Dunham, Aurora, testified that on Sunday morning, Nov. 29, at 1 o'clock, he noticed a disturbance on the main section of Yonge St. in Aurora and upon investigating found the accused man and another fighting and shouting. He said that he put both men in the lock-up until the next day.

The accused man had been drinking, stated the officer. "This isn't the first time I've had similar trouble with him."

"You are too young to be drinking," commented his worship. Magistrate Woodliffe ordered that a warrant be issued for the arrest of James Farley, a soldier, living in Newmarket, the other party to the disturbance, who failed to appear in court to answer the charge of vagrancy against him.

Sixty dollars and costs of $27.90 was the fine imposed on Gordon Hosie, 83 Yonge St., Toronto, whom Magistrate Woodliffe found guilty of charges of dangerous driving. His worship also ordered that Mr. Hosie's license to drive be suspended for a period of six months. A charge of careless driving against the defendant was withdrawn.

The charges against Mr. Hosie arose out of an accident in Aurora, on April 8, when the defendant's car struck Melvin Robinson, Aurora street-cleaner, causing serious bodily harm.

Mr. Robinson appeared in police court on Tuesday on crutches and had to be seated while giving evidence. He said that on the day in question, at about 3 p.m., he had been cleaning Yonge St., Aurora, and when struck by Mr. Hosie's car he had been just inside the southern limits of the town, pushing his cart close to the curb in a northerly direction.

"Something hit me from behind and knocked me over," stated the witness. "I lost consciousness and when I came to I was in the York county hospital in Newmarket." He said that he was ten weeks in this hospital before being sent to the Toronto general hospital, where he remained for a month before being sent to St. John's convalescent home, where he is staying at present.

Questioned by the crown as to the weather conditions on the day of the accident, Mr. Robinson said that it was a clear, dry day.

Called to the stand to give evidence, Dr. James L. Urquhart, Aurora physician, told his worship that he had attended the injured man on April 8 and found a multiple fracture of the left leg, slight concussion and lacerations. He said that there was no evidence that he had been run over by the car.

Questioned by defence counsel, the witness stated he had been talking to Mr. Hosie on the afternoon of the accident and found him to be in a normal condition and very solicitous for the injured man.

Questioned by the crown, N. L. Mathews, K.C., Chief Constable Fisher Dunham, Aurora, stated that he had arrived at the scene at about 3.10 p.m., and found the defendant's car parked on the east side of Yonge St., about a quarter of a mile inside the south limits of the town of Aurora. He said that Mr. Robinson was lying between the car and the curb. He took him to the hospital in his car and returned to question the defendant. When he asked the latter if he were the driver of the car he said that he was and that he was alone in the car.

"I asked him what happened," stated the officer. "He said that he didn't know, that he must have taken his eyes off the road for a moment."

Constable Dunham went on to inform his worship that there were skid marks on the road for a distance of 42 feet and that the car had been three feet, eight inches from the curb.

"On the evidence I find you guilty of driving in a manner dangerous to the public," Magistrate Woodliffe told Mr. Hosie. "It was a very sloppy way to drive. The road was dry and it was broad daylight."

Another dangerous driving charge was against Patrick McLoughlin, Aurora, whom his worship found guilty and fined $5 and costs of $34.75 or ten days.

According to H. McLeod, Schomberg, a veterinary surgeon, he had been driving south on No. 27 highway about three miles north of Nobleton at about 10 a.m. on Oct.

27, when nearing a curve in the road in the vicinity of Bell's Lake, he noticed an approaching truck, which he later learned was driven by the defendant, come straight at his car. He said that he put on his brakes and braced himself for the impact which took place over the double white lines marking the centre of the road, on his side of the road.

In reply to Mr. Mathews for the crown, the witness said that considerable damage had been done to both car and truck. He himself had to go to the hospital for injuries to his chest. He said that the day was clear with slight snow flurries and the road dry.

According to the testimony of Gilbert Armstrong, proprietor of a Schomberg garage, who towed the vehicles away, he had found the McLeod car on its proper side of the road and the front end of the truck over the centre line.

George Fractor, Schomberg, an air force man, who was driving south and arrived a few minutes after the accident occurred, also testified that the defendant's truck was over the centre line of the road.

"I wouldn't like to say how far over the line the truck was, but it was definitely over," he stated. He said that he took Mr. McLeod to see a doctor.

Constable Gus Farquhar of King township said that upon investigating the accident he found that the defendant's truck was 27 inches over the west solid line of the road and that the McLeod car was partly off the pavement.

"I asked Mr. McLoughlin what happened and he said that something went wrong with his steering," stated the officer.

Mr. McLoughlin told his worship that as he had approached the curve his truck hit a bump in the road and three crates of grapes, which he had on the seat beside him, toppled over and interfered with his driving. He said that he tried to push them back on the seat and must have taken his eyes off the road.

"How far did you go while you were pushing the grapes back on the seat?" asked the crown.

"Oh, about a perch or so," replied Mr. McLoughlin.

"How far is that? I know how big some of them are?" asked the crown.

"That depends upon whether you catch them or they get away," Mr. Mathews, interrupted the defence counsel.

Mr. McLoughlin told his worship that he had been driving for years and never had an accident before. He had been driving three times a week over this road for the last 15 years.

"On the evidence I find you guilty of not keeping a proper lookout at the curve," stated Magistrate Woodliffe. "It is a dangerous curve and you are familiar with it. There is a sign there. You took your eyes off the road."

For travelling at 60 miles an hour on Yonge St. on Nov. 21, Frank D. Sladden, Camp Borden, was fined $25 and costs. Ten dollars and costs was the fine given to Wong Chog, Bradford, for having inefficient brakes on his car.

Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson laid both charges.

At the request of the crown, charges of wilfully damaging the property of Lewis Mount, Kettleby, to the extent of $27 on Hal-lowe'en night, against four youths, all of King township, were allowed for two weeks to enable police to lay charges against others involved in the episode.

Benjamin Collings has been appointed, by Bradford council, commissioner in charge of repairs to the Holland Marsh drainage system. The work will cost about $2,000.

FARM FORUM GROUP STUDY MANPOWER SITUATION

The last meeting in the fall series of the Newmarket East farm radio forum was held on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker.

After listening to the special broadcast by National Selective Service officials, the groups discussed the nation's manpower problems and policies, with special reference to agriculture.

"IMAGINE! MY OWN SISTER SAYING MY CLOTHES LOOKED HALF-WASHED!"

THEN SHE EXPLAINED, AS SHE SHOWED ME HER WASH:

NO MATTER HOW YOU DO YOUR WASH YOU NEED SUNLIGHT'S "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" FOR EXTRA DIRTY SPOTS

Just what every woman needs for today's bigger washes!

HOW DISAPPOINTING it is to work for hours over a tufol of clothes . . . only to hear someone say they're "half-washed." Yet, unless you have Sunlight's extra-soapiness for those extra-dirty spots, your wash is apt to be only half-clean.

WHY TAKE CHANCES when it is so easy to get bright washes—all over! Just give those stubborn spots a touch of Sunlight. Instantly a firm film of soap comes in contact with the dirt. Then, as you wash, Sunlight's extra cleansing power loosens even ingrained dirt. The "toughest" cuffs, collars, edges, hems come brighter . . . easily. And such a gloriously sweet-smelling wash, too!

Safe for colors

SAY GOODBYE to streaky, half-washed clothes. Try Sunlight's deep-down washing power on today's extra-grimy work clothes. Sunlight Soap is safe for finest materials. Grand for colors. And remember, with Sunlight hard rubbing isn't necessary. The Sunlight method of washing is thorough yet amazingly safe and gentle.

EASIEST DISHWASHING EVER WITH THESE GREASE-CHASING SUDS!

*Sunlight Soap is used by thousands for sparkling clean woodwork, tile, windows, and glassware. Just feel Sunlight—notice how soapy it is. It's this "extra-soapiness" that makes Sunlight so wonderful for the grimest washes—speeds-up dishwashing, too. And because Sunlight is all pure soap—it's kind to hands and goes a long way.

FOR A COMPLETE WASHING JOB YOU CAN'T DO WITHOUT SUNLIGHT

can best be said with something USEFUL, something LASTING, something that will make the absent daughter, soldier son, sister or brother, dad or mother, know that YOU GAVE YOUR GIFT SOME THOUGHT.

POOR PUSSY!

By GOLDEN GLOW

Some time ago I promised a friend, a cat lover, to write a Golden Glow article on cats, but I never seemed to get around to it, and even now I know I am not going to do the subject justice. I am not exactly in the writing mood these days. But it is a subject very near my heart, I assure you, for I've always had a deep affection for puss. Yes, and I could recount some great stories connected with the different cats I've had in my lifetime. But this little article is not to be that kind. What I had in mind really was hearing a broadcaster say that cats were at a premium in China, for the rats and mice are increasing at an alarming rate and are proving to be a decided menace. A mother cat, considered the best mouser, as perhaps you know, brings $10 and a tom-cat just $7, while a one-eyed common or garden variety alley cat brings merely $1.

You will often hear folks say, "Oh you feed that cat too well—it will never catch a mouse!" But there they were wrong. A poorly-fed cat hasn't the keenness and the sharpened intelligence a better-fed cat has. Yes, cats are intelligent or they have an extra "sense" that passes for intelligence! There is some occult instinct, perhaps, that tells them when a storm is approaching, for it is proverbial that cats won't go out-of-doors if a storm is coming, and if you put them out they will scratch and meow at the door to get back inside.

They make themselves very small and scarce if they think it's time to be put out and a thunder-storm is on the way. They surely sense the electricity in the air for their fur is a conductor of electricity and when you strike them hard and the sparks fly, they often cry out in pain, so I judge they receive a shock.

But again I say cats are intelligent, for how they can coax and purr in dulcet tones, and wave their beautiful plume tails, and cuddle round and make cute pictures of themselves when they want you to do something—usually feed them something delectable! How innocent they appear, even when caught in the act nearly of fishing out the gold fish in the fish-bowl or after frightening the canary. Sure they are "wise guys," and no matter what misdemeanor they commit, we usually end in forgiving them and feeding them up as usual with the best in the house!

I never could resist cats and kittens, even when the mischievous little balls of fluff sharpen their claws on your stockings, climb up the curtains, chew your umbrella fern all off, instead of going out to chew up some green grass, sharpen their claws in the chesterfield and a lot more things we all know they do to make us jolly mad at them! The old saying still holds, "What is home without a cat?"

I read a little item somewhere not long ago by somebody who was explaining that a "cat's nine lives" were its nine ways of getting a living. Let me see if I can recall the nine ways he mentioned. A cat can coax, steal, fight, climb, that's four—oh, yes, it can fish, wait patiently by a mouse hole for hours, lie in wait. I should say, spring straight up in the air, or should I say, pounce, it can run very fast—what is the word for that? The article used one word only, oh yes, sprint. It can creep up on the birds in a very sly way—what one word expresses that, oh yes, stalk. There I have recalled the nine, and I think that man has something there, but all the same cats do seem to live charmed lives.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS HONOR RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Harvey Terry and several friends and neighbors gave a shower for Mrs. Alfred Ainsworth, nee Mary Scott, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Nelson Scott, on Thursday, and presented her with a silver cream and sugar set and tray.

IS WHITCHURCH BOY

Bdr. Dudley H. Foster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foster, Stouffville, 5th concession, Whitchurch. At present he is stationed at a British Columbia military camp. Bdr. Foster enlisted a year ago February and was home on leave in September.

Declare Objectors Best Firefighters B.C. Has Had

A number of Whitchurch and Markham township sons of the soil, of religious faiths which disapprove of bearing arms, have been serving in road construction camps in northern Ontario and lately in firefighting units in British Columbia. A Pine Orchard boy has forwarded to his parents the following frank appraisal of the conscientious objectors from the British Columbia Forest Branch Newsletter. It indicates that these boys are giving their country good service:

Sooner or later, every member of the (B.C.) forest service is going to be asked questions about the A.S.W.'s (Alternative Service Workers) who are now doing forest protection work under forest branch administration. To help you answer those questions the writer will tell you what he saw, what he heard and how he felt about the A.S.W.'s after a recent visit, which covered most of the camps . . .

Like most of us, I went into my first camp prepared to find a totally different type of man from what I found. I had built up an idea of what a conscientious objector would be like. He was, in my mental picture, on a par with the chinless hangers-on that one sees wandering around the city streets . . . the professional goldbricks, if you like. The A.S.W. boys are not a bit like that.

Another impression that was corrected for me almost at once was the idea that they object to doing any kind of military service. From what I am able to gather, this is not true . . . They object only to bearing arms. In other words, they are willing to serve their country—yes, they very definitely consider Canada their country and they are convinced her cause is just—so long as they are not asked to kill anyone; they will act as stretcher bearers, despatch riders, or common laborers. They demonstrated their willingness to serve when a recruiting N.C.O. called at Menzies Bay camp. Apparently he was not very clear on his instructions and promised them they would be recruited into non-combatant units. When they arrived at recruiting headquarters they were asked to take the ordinary oath of allegiance, with no assurance of being assigned to non-fighting units. All but two of them refused to sign and returned to camp.

There may be, and probably are, a few men suffering from one flat foot and one cold one, but the majority are sincere. It occurred to me that perhaps most of them had accepted the policy of the church, rather than examining their own conscience in respect to war. The church is a great power in their lives and parsons tour the camps regularly. Services are held often and every meal is preceded by prayer.

You cannot be associated with these men for any considerable length of time without becoming convinced of their sincerity. They go about their various jobs with cheerful determination; they work hard, well and willingly. Most of them hail from farms and are true sons of the soil, proud of the fact that they are farmers and anxious for the day when they can return to their farms.

The fact that there are several different denominations in some of the camps has led to confusion. In one camp, near Alberni, a small group insists on visiting the nearby town on Saturday night and holding street services. The rest of the boys in this camp, being of a different religious stripe, objected on the grounds that it is undignified. The question was put to the foreman for decision. This particular foreman is a wise old duck, and didn't wade through his 60 admitted years without learning a thing or two. He surveyed the gathering solemnly and thought fast. At last he cleared his throat and asked, "You ask me what is right and what is wrong in this case, and I answer you with a question. What would Jesus do? What would Jesus say?" Every man present knew the passage wherein Jesus commanded his disciples to go into the highways and byways. The argument ended right there, and so far as I know, the boys still preach to the shining populace of Port Alberni on Saturday nights.

Loneliness seems to be the greatest hardship the men have to bear. Sometimes they get so lonely for the sight of strange faces that they book sick, which gets them a trip to town for an examination and treatment. As a rule, the trip cures the ailment and the man is able to go right back to work.

There is, as usual, the odd lawyer in the bunch, and from him I learned that we, the people of Canada, made a deal with the Mennonites and other religious groups whereby they would not have to bear arms if Canada went to war, but would do some alternative service which is what they are now doing.

One of the interesting sidelights of the A.S.W. camps is the use and construction of prefabricated houses. The houses are delivered, as you know, cut and ready to put together. Each board is slotted and numbered and fits the next board, so that they make a weather-proof joint about five inches long. Some of them have become real experts in putting these houses up. A house a day is the rule for a three-man crew. Each house holds eight men, who sleep in double-decker, pre-fabricated bunks, some with springs and some without. When winter comes, a stove, probably a Klondike, will be provided for each hut.

Jim Pedley says the A.S.W.'s are the best firefighters we ever had.

TWO MUNICIPALITIES SAY YES, ONE SAYS NO

A setback to the proposal to engage a health nurse for the village of Bradford and the townships of West Gwillimbury and Tecumseh was suffered when Tecumseh township rejected the scheme.

As it is not likely that Bradford or West Gwillimbury would be prepared to bear the cost of a public health nurse alone, the scheme will be held up until after elections in the three municipalities. Tecumseh councillors said that county hospitalization charges were low and objected to the proposal to base the share of the costs upon assessment figures.

Bank Has More Business. And Makes Less Profit

With deposits passing the billion dollar mark for the first time in its history of a century and a quarter, and with assets at an all-time high, the Bank of Montreal in its annual report presents an impressive war-time record.

Increased holdings of government and other bonds are a direct reflection of participation in the government's financing of the national effort, while loans to business and industry have been reduced. The ratio of quickly available assets substantially increased, as the bank's strong position was well maintained.

Extended banking operations resulted in a moderate expansion of earnings, but higher taxes paid into the federal treasury brought about a sizable reduction in net profits.

The total of assets as at the end of the fiscal year Oct. 31 was $1,175,319,231, showing an increase of $128,767,752 over the preceding year, which, at $1,046,551,479, was itself a record up to that time. Liabilities to the public totalled $1,098,526,216, the excess of assets being $78,793,015, which represents the shareholders' equity.

The bank's strong position was further shown in the total of quickly available assets which at $806,935,228, equal 81.65 percent of all liabilities to the public.

Profits and Taxation
Profits for the year, after deduction of Dominion government taxes, at $253,018 showed a reduction of $251,008 and compared with $2,337,023 of the preceding year. The figures are after making appropriations to contingent reserve and after making full provision for bad and doubtful debts.

The federal taxes increased to $2,539,874 (of which $72,360 is refundable under the provisions of The Excess Profits Tax Act) from $2,242,005 in the previous year, this increase being substantially greater than the decline in profits shown. The profits represent 4.31 percent on the shareholders' equity as compared with 4.51 percent shown a year ago.

Dividend payments of $2,700,000 were less by $180,000 than in the previous year, this being the result of a reduction in the rate paid following upon reduced profits, the outcome of higher taxation.

The statement, as it appears elsewhere in this issue, is in its usual easily understandable form, with explanatory notations accompanying the various items.

In Memoriam

Cook—In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Francis Thomas Cook, who was killed Dec. 4, 1941.

And we but got one last fond look into your loving face,
Or had we only got the chance
To kneel down in that place,
Could we have held your loving hand
Or heard your last farewell,
The parting would not have been so hard.

For you we loved so well,
No loved one was by your side,
To hear your parting sigh,
To whisper just a loving word
Or even say good-bye.

Father, mother, sister, Betty, and brother, Harold, overseas.

Evelyn—Memory's loving tribute to a dear wife and mother, Ellen Evelyn, who passed away Dec. 5, 1941.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.

The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
Ever remembered by husband and family.

CHURCH COMPLETES 72 YEARS SERVICE

Rev. J. B. Paulin of Toronto was guest preacher at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church for its 72nd anniversary on Sunday. Dr. Crawford Rose was the soloist in the morning. The Aurora public school double trio and Jean Robertson and Lois Geer, Newmarket, took part in the evening service.

Rev. S. W. Hirtle is the tenth pastor of the church. Rev. Walter Amos was pastor of the church for 36 years. Other ministers have been Rev. George Bruce, Rev. H. H. Allen, Rev. J. A. Tuer, Rev. James R. Conn, Rev. G. Eldridge, Rev. G. S. Glenn, Rev. George Dix and Rev. Kenneth McCreary.

At present the local church forms part of the same charge as Richmond Hill Presbyterian church.

Exertions When Car Ditched Prove Fatal

Richard Frederick ("Dick") Green, well known resident of the Aurora-Newmarket district, died suddenly at Queensville on Saturday.

In his 66th year, Mr. Green had suffered from a heart condition for some years and on Saturday had motored north, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Roblin, Newmarket. Near Queensville his car skidded into a ditch and, after attempting to extricate it, he made his way about half a mile to the home of Robert Sticklewood to seek aid, leaving Mrs. Roblin in the car.

His earlier efforts and the weight proved too much for him and he collapsed on the lawn. His body was discovered by Mr. Sticklewood on his return from Newmarket. Mr. Green's flashlight was still lit.

Constable Joseph Jardine made a search of the district and discovered the car. Dr. L. W. Dales, Newmarket, said that death was from natural causes and that no inquest would be held.

Mr. Green was employed for many years by the late Fred. Browning and later by the Aurora Building company as a skilled carpenter. His wife died ten years ago. He is survived by one son, George, Richmond Hill, R. R. 1, two sisters, Mrs. George Yates, North Gwillimbury township, and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Toronto, and two brothers, John, Manitoulin Island, and Walter, Vancouver, B.C.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Harvey Gibney, the former Sutton hockey flash, appears in York-Simcoe softball, is back home in Newmarket again after being honorably discharged from the first battalion of the Queen's Yorks. Gibney was a corporal in the reserve battalion of the Yorks and a hockey injury forced him to retire. Then last summer, he went active but again ailments intervened. The list of athletes who are discharged from the army or are back from overseas continues to grow as the war goes on. Roy ("Mutt") Collings, Bradford, Wilf White of softball fame, Willie Eusey and "Shorty" Turan, both stellar all-around performers, to name a few.

Alex. Jackson, the talkative maestro of Newmarket camp's hardball champs of 1941, is still stationed at North Bay centre but expects to move shortly, as he has offered his services as a para-trooper.

Don Hamilton, goalie last year for Aurora Juniors and a very neat performer too but a bit unlucky, is now performing for Indians at Varsity arena and doing a fine job. Don, who is now 19, is a member of a reserve unit and expects to go active come spring. He kept himself in condition the past year by playing soccer and wound up as a member of the Toronto district champs. If a hockey team could be formed in Aurora his services would be available.

Ben Jack, the new colored lightweight sensation, is one of the most unusual sports characters we have read about. His real name is Sydney Walker and as a derelict youngster he was adopted by a group of sportsmen at the Atlanta, Georgia, golf club. He shuns the girls, cannot read or write, which may keep him from the army, has a $10,000 annuity tucked away, and appears certain to be champ. His favorite haberdashery reads like something resulting from a hangover—yellow-checked coat, peg-top pants, green pork-pie hat, purple tie, and yellow shoes.

Nick Bangay, youngest of the duo of Highland Creek brothers who sparked Markham Juniors to a title, is now stationed at Newmarket camp and presumably will be available for puck-chasing this winter unless snatched elsewhere in one of those all too typical "array moves." Nick was headed for Marlboro Juniors until he joined up. He is equally handy on either the forward line or defence and while a bit light knows how to handle himself when the going is tough. Army food and training should make him a piece of potential dynamite.

Al Kirby of last year's Collingwood team, who hails from Barrie, is another athlete to be honorably discharged from the army. Last year in the local group he finished second to "John" McComb of Sutton in the scoring race. McComb is in rare form as a marksman again, being near the top of the heap in the West Toronto mercantile league and destined to stay there too. The swivel-hipped McComb is one of the most popular players in the entire circuit.

Collingwood intermediates are back in action again with Owen Sound Orphans and Durham as group rivals. Collingwood, while they played intermediate last year and were the only outfit to defeat Sutton, went into the senior B series. Owen Sound were in B last year, nosing out Markham Flyers by the odd game in the finals.

Cecil Dillon, who a few years back was one of the stars of the New York Rangers and established a record for consecutive games in action, may be seen in action for Collingwood, as he is now working in a war industry at Meaford, his old stamping ground.

Wes. Rotham, former Bradford hockeyist, has been transferred from A.C.A.F. Ron, Watts of Wiltonville, who played goal for North York A.C. and went north to play too soon for Aurora Juniors, who sought his services in 1938-39, has arrived in Britain.

Clarence Myles, who a few years back was a nifty hardball catcher for Richmond Hill and also played hockey, has been elected president of the Richmond Hill curling club, which has organized for another big year. Down at the Hill the fellows, who are just a bit too old for strenuous sport, take their winter exercise with the granite disc and have a lot of inexpensive fun. Jim Grainger, who guarded the nets for Aurora in the early 30's, and Norman Chatterley are other young men holding executive posts, while Fred. Hoover and Bob Moodle represent the oldsters.

Graham Teasdale, still on duty at Buffalo, N.Y., is again acting as linesman in the minor pro circuit for Buffalo home games and is also coaching a couple of teams in the Sunday afternoon league in that city. The Aurora boy is doing all right by himself, too, and some fine time will likely blossom into bigger fields.

Ernie Nerlek, who was a star with Stouffville Juniors when that village had a fine team back in the days when Aurora was just getting started in junior hockey, is still in the game and playing senior commercial T.H.L. at Varsity arena. Nerlek, or Nerlek, which we think was the way he spelled it then, was the bespectacled, trikey stick-handler who gave the boys all kinds of trouble, even if he wasn't a fast skater.

O.H.A. entries are still being accepted, which still gives Aurora or Newmarket a chance to get into things if some fast organizing is done. Last year there were 101 teams in all series. At the present time there are 74 entries in hand and only four series. Senior B, intermediate B and Junior C are gone. The latter two are the ones in which small-town Ontario really operated, and gasoline rationing and enlistments have made that next to an impossibility, although when you look at some of the entries and the distances that will have to be travelled you will be ready to believe the day of miracles is not yet past. Last year the armed forces had roughly ten or 11 teams entered. Now the count shows the number up to 16 and likely to mount before it is over. Gone are such hardy favorites as Sutton, Owen Sound Juniors, Elmira, Forquiss, Elora, Paris, Aurora, Oakville, Etobicoke, Georgetown, Acton, Glencoe, Watford, Wingham, Walkerton, Kitchener, Penetang, Grimsby, Caledonia, Mildmay and many other places.

Senior hockey, if it were not for the three armed services, would not exist in Ontario other than in the Niagara peninsula, a beehive of wartime activity. Maple Leaf Gardens did a fine job for themselves and the fans when they were able to secure service entries. Newmarket gets a real break this season, and Stan. Smith is all smiles now.

The Camp, headed by Lieut. Johnny Frew, former pro, and Lieut. Dave Matheson, have again entered this series and have even had practices on artificial ice, too. They are not disclosing the names of their players, lest R.S.M. Dick Mansell and Coach Tracy Shaw hear about it and get to M.D. 2 headquarters to put the snatch on the cream of the crop. Last year the Camp had only Markham as opponents and the smooth-skating youthful Markies, steeped in each other's style of play, were too good for the Barkness huskies. This year the opposition will be all military. To date the opposition is composed of Brampton camp and an air force team, the Angus Bombers. Understand Camp Borden army medical corps will have an entry too. At least, they have secured ice facilities at Barrie arena.

Midland and Gravenhurst, who battled it out with Sutton Green-shirts last season, will face the barrier again and Lieut. Al. Ross, former sports officer at Newmarket camp, has a team from the new Orillia training centre in this group.

Junior B is the way hockey other than A will be designated. It was in 1938 that the C series was devised to give the smaller centres a chance. Now they are all in the same boat. Barrie has withdrawn to junior A with a bye until the play-offs start.

Markham Juniors, headed by Grant Nighswander and Stan. Pringle, have entered a team in the central group in which Aurora has always played. "Cap" Hayward has Milton back in again, Royce A.C. and Birchcliff, two midge T.H.L. teams of other years, are entered and Bolton, backed by rinkowner O. J. Hardwick, have decided to get back into the game after a year's absence. Two years ago Bolton reached the finals but lost out to Markham.

If Aurora should yet decide to enter a team, that is the group they would have to play in. Markham at the time of entry hoped Aurora would be entering a team. The trip from Markham to Milton is in the neighborhood of 60 miles, which is travelling in these days.

Where will the players come from, you ask. Well, unless Markham and Milton depend on home-brews, they will have to import as in former years. Gone from Markham are Collins, Bangay, Northcote, Calhoun, Wetherill, Brown, Hayes, Patterson and others. "Bus" Sabiston and Jackie Watson, along with Headway, still remain. Gone from Milton are Evans, Gillespie, Coffell, Selizzi, Coats and others, but Orangeville, who had a championship juvenile team, would provide good hunting grounds. Birchcliff, run by J. Scanlon, a relative of the Aurora family of that name, will provide plenty of opposition for Markham, so far as players living in East York and Scarborough are concerned.

Royce A.C., a western club, presents an obstacle for Bolton in drawing on players. The latter club, however, have already been on the ice at Raylton gardens.

W. A. Hewitt told the writer on Friday that an Aurora entry would be welcome. His opinion was that Markham, Milton and Bolton would all have to depend on local talent for the nucleus of their clubs.

Intermediate hockey would find a district team included in that military group, which looks top notch and has too much travelling, onto duffers last week. A lower league either in Aurora or Newmarket, or combined between the two, would be allowed to affiliate for one entry fee with the O.H.A. and send its winner into the O.H.A. playdowns. We asked if the winning club could strengthen up for the play-offs and the answer was "no," but of course wartime replacements, and the league's own set-up can govern that arrangement.

"Time's awastin'! If there is to be hockey in either Aurora or Newmarket other than that provided by the Camp, we would be pleased to hear from some of the fans."

St. Andrew's College has withdrawn from O.H.A. competition this season but if it could manage a football schedule it could probably carry on at the arena. We have thought a fairly attractive local junior loop exclusive of O.H.A. could be formed with St. Andrew's, Pickering College and some of the towns and villages included.

Bill Wilson, despite the publicity given many of the other lads on the navy team, has provided plenty of action and some nice scoring thrusts. The dark-haired Newmarket boy looked pretty slick in those photos which appeared in the Toronto duffers last week. Scotty Blair and Bill teamed up on a couple of Aurora goals, their first appearance together since the boys played against Orangeville back in 1937-38.

No cross-country run will be held at Aurora high school this year, according to Principal J. H.

Knowles. The event, a North York sporting classic since 1929, has been discontinued for several reasons. First, the late start of school in the fall, secondly, a change of personnel, both of students and staff responsible for the event. Dr. Bruce Macdonald, headmaster of St. Andrew's College, donated a memorial trophy in 1929 with the stipulation that no boy would win it more than once and until this year it had been run continuously. Some great athletes have held it as follows: Marvin Hunter, Allen Knowles, Alfred Forest, Allen Reilly, Cyril Dellman, William Jones, Harry Mount, Donald Webster, Paul Knowles, Howard Folliott, John Hughey and Pete Hughey, last year. Of these lads Pilot-Officer Donald Webster, who later played football at Varsity, is now a prisoner of war in Germany. Many of that list are also on active service.

Maple lacrosse club may prove a puzzle to you but back in 1935-36 a junior league functioned at Richmond Hill, which was won by Maple. We mention the club because of a donation by it to the Knit-Wits club of that village of all the funds in the treasury, amounting to $15, for boxes for the boys overseas. There must be quite a bit of money scattered around in the banks of North York in the names of organizations, athletic and otherwise, now defunct. Why not think it over, and if you remember any, get the officers together and see it's put into circulation for the boys as the sportsmen at Maple now have done.

VOWS ARE TAKEN AT KESWICK CHURCH

Standards of white and pink chrysanthemums formed the setting in Keswick United church on Saturday afternoon when Helen Eveyn Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton, Orchard Beach, became the bride of John Edmund Southwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Southwell, Newmarket. Miss Margaret Fockler, Maple, was at the organ and Mrs. Garfield Hamilton was the soloist. Rev. Gordon Lapp performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. C. E. Fockler, Maple.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with full skirt and ruffled bodice trimmed with lace. Her full-length veil of hand embroidered silk net fell from a nape headress and she carried a shower of white baby mums.

Miss Barbara Davis, Newmarket, was bridesmaid, frocked in green velvet with matching Mary Queen of Scots hat and bouquet of bronze mums.

Murray Davis, Newmarket, was best man and the ushers were James Otton, Newmarket, and Ralph Hamilton, brother of the bride.

At the reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Hamilton received in a gown of green crepe with corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom was in blue crepe with red roses.

The newly-weds are to reside in Niagara Falls, Ont. For travelling the bride donned a tuchia crepe dress with matching hat and muskrat coat.

CHURCH WEDDING IS PRETTY EVENT

White mums, spruce branches and bittersweet formed the background for the wedding in Keswick United church on Saturday afternoon of Marion Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Marritt of Hamilton, to Arthur Elroy Starr of Ajax, son of Mrs. Roy Arnold of Queensville, and the late Nelson Elroy Starr. Rev. Gordon Lapp performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of imported white lace over satin with long torso, full skirt, and sweetheart neckline, and the veil worn by her mother, caught with orange blossoms.

She wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was red roses and bouvardia.

Miss Doreen Marritt, in heavenly blue jersey, was maid of honor. Miss Margaret Marritt as bridesmaid wore wild rose jersey and Miss Mary Arnold, junior bridesmaid, sister of the groom, wore minuet-blue jersey.

Their dresses were fashioned alike with torso waist, full skirts and sweetheart neckline. All wore triple strings of pearls, and carried nosegays of baby pink and white mums. The maid of honor wore a floral halo with shoulder-length veil to match her dress and the bridesmaid and junior bridesmaid wore white flowers in their hair.

CAMPANOLOGY IS ART IN LITTLE OLD ENGLAND

By GOLDEN GLOW

Britain's premier, Winston Churchill, in his speech last Sunday, spoke of the bells rung at his request all over England a few Sundays ago, the broadcast of which inspired me to write an article in that week's Golden Glow column.

To my great pleasure I received a letter from Rev. A. J. Patstone last week, such a grand letter that I feel I must share it with the readers of this column, for naturally we, here in Canada, only know about England's wonderful bells, and the bell-ringers by hearsay, and by what we read, and Mr. Patstone knows from his own experience.

Bell-ringing is indeed a wonderful accomplishment and every time I hear them I marvel. I have heard the bells that Mr. Patstone speaks of in Victoria, and, as I read his letter, I was back in that beautiful city, recalling my visit there, and how each Sunday we planned to be early at the service at the cathedral for the quarter hour of church hymns played beforehand. The cathedral stands on a high hill, towering over the city, and the music of those bells is something one never forgets. When I heard the grand old hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past," from England the other Sunday I recalled when I heard that same hymn played one Sunday out in Victoria. It is something the people of Victoria appreciate. I assure you, for they are so essentially English in that lovely city.

I think I can do no better than give Mr. Editor the letter I refer to, and I am confident Mr. Patstone will have no objection to me sharing it with all the readers of The Era and Express. I am sure he deserves the grateful thanks of each one of us for so exceedingly interesting a letter, and herewith I tender mine.

Dear Golden Glow:

Will you think me very interesting if I suggest that you may have made a little slip in your article, a good article, on the bells.

The reference to the bells of Coventry being played by a carillon is, I think, a slip. The tone of the bells, as you no doubt noted, was quite unlike the tone of bells in this country played by carilloners. When starting to "ring" the bells, each man must first work at it until the bell is mouth up. He then holds it there until the leader gives the signal for the change to be rung. The bells are under such complete control that each can be made to speak at the will of the ringer. There is a man to each bell.

This method of ringing is peculiar to England. I know of only one "peal" of bells hung to be so used in Canada, those in the new cathedral in Victoria. The difference in tone can be easily demonstrated if you hold a bell still and strike it—which is "chiming," and then swing the same bell at arm's length. A bell used in the latter way has so much more resonance or vibration. I have heard a few small peals in Canada, perhaps three bells, but they were rung in the continental way, in England called clashing, which means that they are not rung in any particular order.

Bell ringing in England, "campanology," is quite an art and requires much practice. There are associations of bell-ringers and competitions are often held. Some changes require many hours to complete. Hymn tunes can also be worked into a change, as was the case at Coventry when to the intense inspiration of us all we heard the strains of "O God Our Help in Ages Past" rung out over a building and a city that had been severely "blitzed" by hun hate.

Kind regards from us all, Yours sincerely,

Arthur J. Patstone.

SAYS NURSING SKILL
MAY BE MUCH NEEDED

every graduate nurse is of a particular value to their country and as need arises will undoubtedly be called, just as your sons have enlisted and are being called, and placed where they are most needed.

"Therefore, I do believe that now is the time for unprofessional people to obtain a knowledge of practical nursing skills, when it can be taught by volunteer graduate nurses. There are ten nurses here who are willing to give of their time and efforts to help you learn this work. All they ask of you is your co-operation.

"If you want our qualifications we are all graduate nurses who have kept abreast with professional progress. We are keenly interested in this type of work. We have also acquired a good deal of practical experience.

"I beg of each and everyone to help organize this work, and help make it a real success.

"The teaching is to be done voluntarily and the use you make of it must be voluntary. I am sure any use you make of the knowledge you acquire will be amply repaid when you realize the satisfaction of having made some sick person more comfortable."

It was explained at the meeting that this nursing reserve course is an entirely different course from any which has been given in Newmarket before and will be very practical. Women from Newmarket and surrounding districts were urged to take advantage of it.

Mrs. R. L. Pritchard, entertainment committee secretary of the Newmarket Red Cross branch, was appointed secretary-treasurer for the course.

The Prime Minister's Response (1) The prime minister thanked the delegation from the general council of the United Church for what he described as its "clear and convincing" presentation. He said he accepted it one hundred percent, and that every fact cited and argument used would be used by himself in discussing the issue.

(2) Mr. King declared that the government fully recognized the seriousness and urgency of the situation, that prolonged negotiations with the provinces to certain financial arrangements had made action on this matter, on the part of the dominion government, difficult. He felt, however, that the restrictions the government had been compelled to make along so many lines had opened the way now for action with regard to the liquor problem. The government had a committee of the cabinet now at work exploring possible ways in which effective action could be taken.

(3) The prime minister announced his intention at an early date of making an appeal to the people

A STATEMENT about
BUTTER

In spite of the fact that in some Canadian cities butter supplies recently have not been sufficient to meet the greatly increased demands, the situation does not constitute an emergency; nor is it as serious as some people seem to think. There are two main causes for these temporary and local shortages:

For the past year we have been consistently using 10% to 15% more butter than in normal times—with consequent disturbance to the distribution of our butter supplies.

Many people have been buying more butter than they currently need.

The limited nature of the present shortage is shown by the fact that if every home would reduce its consumption of butter by only one ounce per person per week (for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week)—or if we reduced our national consumption to the peacetime rate—the shortage would soon disappear.

There is no Reason for Panic Buying

It is unpatriotic and unnecessary for housewives to rush out to beat their neighbors to the nearest grocery store. Butter will not be rationed to meet the present situation. Butter production is actually above normal for this time of year. The Board itself is taking special action which it is believed will speedily restore normal supplies in retail stores.

HOW TO SAVE BUTTER

AT MEAL-TIME

1. Use butter only for spreading on bread.
2. Never use butter just out of the refrigerator. Wait until it is soft enough to spread easily.
3. Add a small amount of milk when creaming butter for sandwiches.

IN COOKING

1. Do not use butter in baking and cooking, when lard, shortening or meat dripping can be used.
2. Use level measurements of butter. . . . Guesswork means waste!
3. When adding cheese to a cream or white sauce, use only half amount of butter stated in recipe.
4. Use paper wrappings from butter to grease baking dishes.
5. Do not use butter for re-heating vegetables.
6. Serve meat gravy to avoid the use of extra butter on potatoes.
7. When adding butter to vegetable dishes, add it sparingly. Do not melt it and then pour on.

These supplies will however be adequate for normal consumption, if housewives in all parts of Canada co-operate.

You can help in these ways:

Scrupulously avoid waste and extravagance. Waste is wrong at all times. In time of war it is sabotage.

Reduce present consumption of butter by at least one ounce per person per week—(for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week.)

Do not buy more than is needed for immediate use.

How This Dancing Screen Star
Treasures Complexion Beauty

A SCREEN STAR has to have a smooth, soft skin. Rita Hayworth never neglects her Lux Toilet Soap facial cleansing. And this is how she does it: "First work up a generous lather and put it lightly into your skin. Next rinse with warm water, then a dab of cold. Pat the face lightly to dry."

Use Lux Toilet Soap the way the screen stars do. Its Whipped Cream Lather carries away every trace of stale cosmetics, dust and dirt. Leaves skin feeling smoother, looking so fresh!

Lux Toilet Soap's Whipped Cream Lather makes it a gorgeous bath soap, too. It cleanses thoroughly—leaves skin smooth and sweet. A bath with Lux Toilet Soap makes you sure of daintiness—leaves skin faintly perfumed with a delicate fragrance you'll love.

SCHOMBERG

Christians Won't Have Easy Life—Archbishop

St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican church, Schomberg, was the scene of an impressive confirmation on Nov. 22, when the archbishop of Toronto, the Right Rev.
Derwyn T. Owen, confirmed a class of nine young people. The candidates were presented by the rector, Rev. F. V. Abbott. The archbishop preached upon the text, "And yet the Lord who dwelleth on high is mightier."

Addressing his words chiefly to the candidates, he spoke of the significance of the service of the laying on of hands, its divine and spiritual origin.

The candidates, he said, were taking their stand for God. They were resolving that Christ should be their leader and their king.
They would meet with much to oppose their determination "yet God who dwelleth on high is mightier than all the adverse forces with which they will have to contend."

Referring to the war, the archbishop said he wasn't one who could speak easily on that subject. "We have great cause to be thankful for the recent turn in events. We have been and are in desperate danger and we must press on with the task that has been laid upon us until the world is rid of evil."

The names of the confirmed are Marjorie Crane, Mary Givens, Irma Givens, Shirley Mc-Leod, Gwenneth Marchant, Bill
Stonehouse, Lois Stonehouse, Joyce Wauchop, and Margaret
Rose, Christ church, Kettleby.

BOYS REPORT DAMP

COLD WEATHER TOUGH

"Just a few lines to express my appreciation for the 300 cigarettes that I received yesterday," writes Tpr. Bob McCann in a letter thanking the Newmarket Veterans. "They certainly came at a convenient time as I just came from leave and I was right out. Your great work is really appreciated, especially when you have to pay two shillings for 20.
I am hoping that some day soon
I will be able to repay all that you have done for me. I think all our boys here are of the same opinion."

"I would appreciate it very much if you would thank all the Vets for me but I wish I could do it myself. In closing I say a million thanks for the smokes and I hope some day soon that we shall all be back and thank you personally."

An interesting letter has been received from Spr. H. Moss thanking the Veterans for cigarettes. "Just a few lines in case the card I returned you from the parcel of cigarettes received last week may go astray," he writes.
"So first, many thanks to all old comrades for the smokes and for the fine work they are doing for the boys from Newmarket and vicinity."

"I am sure there must be a few Newmarket boys around here, there are a considerable number of ordinance and engineers. My own unit is almost entirely composed of men over 39 years of age and a sprinkling of younger men who are category. So there are quite a number of veterans among us and altogether even if we are getting on in years we have a pretty useful bunch of men as most of them have worked at their various trades for a good many years."

"I am afraid the casualties among us may be rather heavy this winter if it should be a hard winter as most of us have already had a couple of winters here and we just can't stand the damp cold here as younger fellows can. I understand the engineer units (and I suppose all units over here) are being combed over pretty thoroughly for men who are not absolutely A category and they will be weeded out into outfits similar to this. Our bombers have been really going to town the last few days with heavy raids on Genoa and yesterday at about 2 p.m. about 50 heavy bombers went roaring over us here at about 400 feet heading for the channel—Stirlings and Lancasters, a fine sight."

"As I was coming back to camp about 9 p.m. that night they began arriving back in the bright moonlight and for half an hour they were passing over us, right on the course they went on. The papers this morning just had a few lines in the 'stop press' news that Milan was bombed yesterday in daylight and we will probably hear more about it this evening. Some trip though and over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marchant visited friends in Tottenham on Monday.

Mrs. McKinley and Della spent Friday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crawford at Kettleby.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mitchell were in Bolton on Friday attending the funeral of Mr. Mitchell's sister.

Miss Marjorie Crane had her tonsils removed on Friday.

A church social was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Marchant.
Games, music and contests were included in the program.

There is no charge for printing

what an adventure!

"Our army is on the move again in Egypt. Let's hope they have better luck this time. If we could only clear the north African coast and get our air bases again established there so we could again use the Mediterranean can with some degree of safety.
It opens up many interesting possibilities now with a couple of million troops here which could be used well equipped and 'rar-ing' to go."

"Last week I received your very welcome package of cigarettes and, as I have been out of Canadian fags for quite some time, they most certainly are a treat." Sgm. A. Cox wrote the Veterans. "So I guess you know from your own experience how they appeal to us over here when we have been smoking English cigarettes."

"There isn't a great deal to say when we receive cigarettes except that it is really swell to know that folks over there think of our comfort over here and I am sure the Newmarket boys take second place to no one when it comes to that. I don't know of anyone that gets so many parcels and cigarettes from various associations as the Newmarket boys. All we can say is 'thanks a million' and when the time comes do our utmost to be worthy of the kind thoughts."

"Just a line to let you know I have just received a gift parcel of cigarettes from you and the Veterans' Association," Pte. J. D.
Cullen wrote Alex. McIntosh, secretary-treasurer of the comforts fund. "Your gift is deeply appreciated and I join with others of the Newmarket boys who are over here in thanking you and your association for the wonderful work you all are doing in helping the boys who are over here. We deeply appreciate your successful effort in reminding the boys that those who are left at home have not forgotten us. We will try our best and I know we'll succeed in keeping up our end over here."

L.-Cpl. Charles Gordon wrote the Veterans to thank them for cigarettes. "We are having terrible weather over here lately, an awful lot of rain and cold," he writes. "There have been a few air raid alarms this morning but nothing near us."

"Thanks ever so much for the cigarettes—they arrived as a birthday present," Capt. J. G.
Cock says in a card to the Veterans. "Now if you can only solve the problem of how to install an adequate central heating unit in my room, I'll be eternally grateful to you. As a matter of fact, if we have many more days like today I think I'll retire in White

Newmarket camp artists put on a smart minstrel show at the town hall on Thursday and Saturday evenings. Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales spoke briefly on Thursday evening and Reeve F. A. Lundy spoke Saturday evening.

The camp glee club and the Newmarket Citizens' band shared the proceeds. Lieut. G. E. Patton was responsible for the program.

HAS ANOTHER ANNIVERSARY
Mrs. Charles Archibald, King, celebrated her 82nd birthday last week. Mrs. Archibald does her own housekeeping, looks after her garden and is a regular attendant at church and women's meetings.

In her spare time she relaxes by sewing quilt patches. Mrs. Archibald and her husband, who is 83, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in October.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Shields and Mrs. Royce of Toronto spent the weekend with their sister, Mrs. R. Harman.

Lloyd and Howard Robertson and Jack Couch of the R.C.A.F. in Quebec, were home on a short furlough at the weekend.

Mrs. Parks has received word from her son, Garnet, who is in the service in western Canada, that he is now a lance-corporal.

Stewart Thompson is moving to a farm south of Woodville and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thompson, are moving into the house on the hill vacated by him.

The funeral of the late Mr. Summerskill of Scott took place from the chapel on Monday afternoon. Interment was in Mount Albert cemetery. Mr. Summerskill was a veteran of the last war and had formerly come from England.

The W.A. bazaar held last Wednesday was a grand success. The proceeds amounted to $76.

Mrs. R. Harman has gone to Ottawa with her sisters, Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Royce, to visit another sister, Mrs. C. C. French.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardhouse of Weston were guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Gardhouse's sister, Mrs. Chas. Scott.

The veterans will hold a euchre and dance in the town hall on Friday evening. The proceeds will go for soldiers' comforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Pearson received a cable on Monday from their son, Sgt. Pilot J. B. Pearson, saying he was changing his address and to wait till they heard from him again. He was well and had received his Christmas parcels.

Rev. Geo. Stafford of Toronto was the speaker for the temperance cause at the United church Sunday morning and also spoke at Hartman in the afternoon.

The public library board will hold an afternoon tea and cake sale on Dec. 12 in the library rooms. A Christmas turkey will be given away at the tea.

William Grose has sold his farm on the eighth concession to Mr. Bruels of Ringwood and he will be moving to Markham village in the near future.

Cpl. Frank Ross of Ottawa was home on leave over the weekend.

Little Betty Rolling, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Rolling, is in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, undergoing treatment for diabetes.

Herbert Pegg has been in York County hospital for some weeks for observation and treatment.

Mrs. J. Forrest of Toronto is spending the winter with her niece, Mrs. J. Rennie.

Miss B. Harmon, recently returned from Wolseley, Sask., where she went some months ago to assist her brother, Garnet Harmon, through the harvest. They had splendid crops in that part but the weather during harvesting and threshing was wet.

The regular monthly meeting of L.O.L. 902 will be held on Friday evening, Dec. 4.

The members of the Cheerio class held a pot-luck supper and social evening at the home of Miss Eva Harrison on Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Stewart Thompson, president of the Cheerio class, who is moving to Woodville, and Miss Mildred Dike, who is leaving shortly to take a position in Toronto. Both members will be greatly missed in the class. Thirty-one members were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harper and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Slorach and Mrs. Annie Harper.

Mrs. Roy Carr visited her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pegg, for two days last week.

Gordon Webster of Sault Ste. Marie, a former resident of Glenville, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webster, Glenville, is pictured above with a 16-lb. lake trout which he caught recently.

work of the well-known Canadian artist, Bruce Stapleton, and the models are Red Cross workers.

The entire proceeds from the sale of the Christmas cards and calendars will go to the Red Cross to help it to continue its invaluable work at home and abroad, for our own and our Allies. Advt.

Arm Is Still Out Of Action, Prisoner Writes

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McDonald have received another letter from Allan McDonald, who is a prisoner of war in Germany.

"It is letter-writing day again, so here I am writing to you," he says. "Hope you are all very well and happy. Please don't worry about me, as I am happy here. My right hand is all healed, but it is a bit stiff yet. My left arm is coming along well, but it will be in plaster for a long time yet."

"When you can, please send me full shaving equipment. Also one or two toothbrushes and combs. And send lots of blades with the razor."

"We have had one concert here and hope to have another shortly. There are lots of musical instruments here, and I have another accordion."

"We receive a parcel every week from the Red Cross and we are all very thankful for their help."

PRAY FOR SOLDIERS BY NAME AT ST. PAUL'S

About 35 members of St. Paul's W.A. attended the corporate communion on Monday morning, St. Andrew's Day.

The rector marked the opening of the Advent season on Sunday with the first in a series of Advent addresses. In the morning he spoke on "Mankind's Greatest Need—A Re-awakened Conscience" and in the evening, "Some Sins of the Ordinary Man — Discouragement."

The beautiful flowers on the altar were in memory of a former member of St. Paul's, Mrs. Ernest Fairley, and were placed there by her family.

Every Wednesday evening at 7:30 prayers and intercessions are held in the chapel, when a certain number of the men in the services from the congregation are prayed for by name.

It takes three evenings to finish the list of names which are taken in alphabetical order. Next week the meeting will start again at the beginning of the list.

NORTH G. RED CROSS WANTS BOYS' ADDRESSES

The dance, sponsored by North Gwillimbury Red Cross, at Belhaven hall on Nov. 20, was successful. The dances, under the sponsorship of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davison of Keswick, are becoming popular. The Cannington orchestra is most generous in their numbers.

There will be another dance on Dec. 4 when the turkey donated by Mr. and Mrs. Atchison of Keswick will be given away. The ladies are asked to either send or bring sandwiches and help the convener.

It is imperative that the names of all enlisted boys be handed to the vice-president in each unit, otherwise the boys will not receive their enlistment gift or the Newmarket Era and Express.

GREETING CARDS HELP RED CROSS

The Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society has issued a series of Christmas greeting cards and calendars which may be purchased at the local branch headquarters.

The greeting cards are four in a set, each illustrating one of the main services of the Red Cross. The original oil paintings are the

"I think one of the outstanding things about our financial position is our debentures," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "The debentures for our town clerk's office were sold locally at par bearing three percent interest. That is the best debenture sale the town has been able to make for 20 years."

Collection this year already of outstanding taxes equal to the amount shown at the beginning of the year as current assets he termed a "most amazing accomplishment."

"In 1932 the town paid in interest on overdraft $2,800," Dr. Dales said. "This year we budgeted for $800 and we have spent only $357. The bank notes no notes of ours at the present time. This is the result of careful financing."

"I feel that the council this year tried to keep up with its opportunities in buying the new clerk's office."

"The council this year felt that it should put itself in the same position as other councils in York county. The days of slavery went out 100 years ago. We feel that it is only fair and just. A question in the post-war world will be whether men shall be paid wages, and it is only fair that they should be. I hope paying the council induces people to run for the council."

"With regard to the nurse question, I stand by what I told the Home and School Association. What I said is accurately reported in The Era and Express."

"All over the world today the sons and daughters of Newmarket are taking their places on sea, on land and in the air. A few years ago they were in our schools. I want to pay high tribute to them and to express the pride which Newmarket people must feel in those who are serving their country and those who have given their lives."

"The bare idea of a man comparing a time of depression with the present!" exclaimed J. E. Nesbitt, the next speaker. "If, however, they have turned the depression into prosperity, it is wrong to think of turning them out."

"They have taken it upon themselves to hire themselves and to pay themselves with someone else's money," said Mr. Nesbitt. "I think they are over-paid. They have excelled all other councils I know in spending money. No matter how cheap a building may be, it is expensive if you can get along without it."

"Something is wrong with this council. Whether it is lack of leadership or too much brotherly love—they want to be together—they haven't any opposition. When I was mayor and Dr. Dales was reeve, I had some opposition and we got somewhere."

"I want to do everything I can to make Newmarket a better place. We don't pay enough attention to these service organizations in this town, the Lions club and the Home and School Association. They want to do something but the council lends them a deaf ear. Dr. Dales speaks of our young people of whom we are proud. What is Newmarket doing? Are we saving every dollar to put it into the war effort? I think this an inopportune time for them to take a salary and a good salary—and no one said a word against them. We need men who think."

"When I was mayor, and questions arose, I said time and time again to the council: 'You don't know what you are voting on. Take it as a notice of motion and vote on it in two weeks time.'"

Mr. Nesbitt advised citizens to "try to get into the council the fellow who thinks for himself."

Reeve F. A. Lundy said that if Mr. Nesbitt thought that the council had not disagreed and had not been criticized he had "not read the paper very carefully."

"On one occasion I had to vote alone," Mr. Lundy said. "I doubt if there is another urban centre of equal population, assessment and area that is in as good financial position," Mr. Lundy said after reviewing, as chairman of the finance committee, the financial position of the town. "I am proud that I have had a small share in co-operating with the treasurer in bringing it about."

"I am glad that representatives of the Home and School Association are here and that they are taking an interest."

Mr. Lundy said that he had been studying at York county council the health question which concerns the Home and School Association. "It is easier for an organization of that kind to get the expert advice and information and bear the expense. I will be glad to turn over to you information and give you any assistance."

"The mayor made a suggestion at the meeting the other night. It has some merit. This point is distinctly in its favor. The nurse would come to us free from all local prejudices. It seems that the great difficulty for some of these school nurses is that there is friction. It is a matter for study, education and application."

"The problem arises when the nurse sends a report to the home about decayed teeth or other defects. It is hard to get the work done."

"I know as a man who worked in a factory the terror of some unforeseen expenditure overtaking us. I shall be glad to have any of these officials come up here and enlighten you on progress made. This has been a hobby of mine for some years. I shall be a candidate. I am anxious to get back down there to county council to go on with this problem. Sickness, loss of position and old age coming on him without proper provision being made are the things a man fears."

"I have been deputy-reeve for about six years," said Deputy-reeve Joseph Vale. "I enjoy the work. I haven't covered myself with glory in county council but I feel that I haven't let down my predecessors. My health won't permit me to carry on with these trips to county council. I shall probably qualify for council."

Mr. Vale said that the purchase of the new municipal building was a good investment.

"I opposed it at the time," he said of the council salaries. "I accepted it and I haven't any apology. Committee meetings take you away from your business for two or three hours at a time."

"I supported it and still support it," Councillor A. D. Evans, nominated for deputy-reeve, said of the payment of the council. "The $100 I received I worked for for 12 years."

Mr. Evans told of working even on Sundays so that the public would have uninterrupted water and light services.

"I am not going to support a nurse just now," said Councillor Evans. He advocated a clinic, to be established when the war is over, and to be supported by government, county and town.

Councillor Wm. Dixon told of the "quiet work" of the police in keeping young people out of trouble, often going to their parents and discussing their behavior with them.

"I was blamed for starting this disturbance by bringing the nurse question before the council," said Mr. Dixon. "I didn't know what promises had been made, or hadn't been made. There was nothing on the minutes to indicate that any promises had been made. One or two promises had been made by members of the council outside of the council but you can't blame the council for that."

"The government not long ago was asking insurance companies and people who employ nurses to release any they could. I think it is a poor time to engage a nurse."

Councillor Arleigh Armstrong said that if he had been present at the meeting when salaries had been voted he would have endorsed them.

Mr. Armstrong said that he thought that there should be some procedure, similar to that under the Liquor Control Act, whereby 25 percent of the people could ask for a vote on a question such as a public health nurse.

Councillor Frank Bowser said that the new municipal building would give a good return on the town's $9,000.

"Dr. Dales pulled a rabbit out of his hat when he proposed a V. O. N. nurse," said Mr. Bowser. "I have no family but I am interested in the young people of Newmarket and the older people as well. We need a public health nurse. Is this the time? I never thought of a V. O. N. nurse. If she is engaged, it will cost the town one-third of what a public health nurse would cost. We don't want to jump into a public health nurse that will cost $1,500 a year. It is every year. Let's discuss it. The mayor, I think, went too far. I want to study it. If I think it is a good thing I'll support it."

Mr. Bowser said that he was one of the three members of the council that opposed paying salaries. "I was elected to serve without remuneration. I stayed with Mr. Lundy and Mr. Vale, who opposed it. We were defeated. We have accepted the money. It is up to you to say whether or not we have earned it."

"People don't appreciate how much danger there was of a shortage of water," said Councillor J. L. Spillette in telling of the record of the water and light committee.

Mr. Spillette said that the proposal for a public health nurse was not far enough reaching. He approved Mr. Evans' suggestion of a clinic.

"Money spent on health, he said, is 'good social economy.' 'If some such scheme as Dr. Dales

Councillor A. V. Higginson thanked Chief Constable James Sloss for helping to get people off the relief lists and getting them old-age pensions. "I have no excuses, no apologies, no axes to grind. We have a war on our hands and we've got to take things as they come."

"I can't look back on any imprints on municipal life," said J. A. Perks, nominated for the council. "Perhaps that is an advantage. I have been in Newmarket four years. If elected I will serve honestly and sincerely."

L. H. Bovair, nominated for public school board, said that he had always been interested in education. "I am a family man. I think I'll qualify and if the electors put me in I'll do my level best."

"I haven't decided whether I'll qualify or not," said Mrs. Margaret McKimming. "If I do so, and should be elected, I'll do all I can."

W. H. Eves, nominated for the public school board, expressed pleasure that so many had been nominated for the school board. He said that for years it had been necessary to coax people to offer their services.

Mr. Eves said that he had served for 16 years on the town council, including his terms as mayor, and 20 years on the public school board, including eight years as chairman.

He told of the inauguration of manual training and domestic science teaching. He said that the inspector now gave the schools practically all "No. 1's" compared with "No. 3's" and "No. 4's" a few years ago.

In spite of difficulties this year, Mr. Eves said, the board had been successful in securing "two splendid men teachers. The board had been unable to get an art teacher. 'I have no apology for dropping art. It is one of the things that we can do without for a year or two.' It had been necessary to increase teaching salaries."

Radio Service

As everyone wishes their radio in good working order at this time of year it is a problem to give as good service as we would like. We appreciate the patience shown by many, and especially those out of town, in waiting for us to call. In order to help us give better service, we would ask you to observe the following suggestions.

Whenever possible bring your radio to the shop for repairs. If you remove the chassis from the cabinet bring both chassis and speaker. If you own a battery set bring the batteries too.

Avoid unnecessary calls. Don't blame your radio till you make sure your trouble is not outside interference or a noisy aerial. See what noise your neighbors get and make sure all your aerial and ground connections are tight.

If you have one radio working properly do not ask for immediate service on extra radios.

Due to present conditions we cannot give credit on repair work.
